

U.S. Representative David Weldon Tours Satcom Direct

Congressman Dave Weldon, M.D. of Florida's 15th U.S. Congressional District toured Satcom Direct during this summer's district work period.

Satcom Direct was recently honored to host United States Congressman Dave Weldon of Florida. Dr. Weldon spent some time with Jim Jensen, Founder and CEO of Satcom Direct, discussing the current climate of the global satellite telecommunications industry. Following this, Dr. Weldon was given an overview presentation of Satcom Direct's history, current operations and unique value-added technological innovations by David Greenhill, Vice President of Satcom Direct Communications.

Rep. Weldon recently conducted a survey to assess local business interest in learning more about small business opportunities for federal funding and contracts. He received an overwhelming reply from local businesses and in response, Weldon is hosting this event to aid small businesses and entrepreneurs in the fifteenth district of Florida. "I am convinced that now, more than ever, we must help business and industry maintain a dominant presence in today's highly competitive marketplace and I am committed to help businesses in my district develop and prosper," Weldon said. On his visit to our company Rep. Weldon commented, "Satcom Direct is one of the excellent small business success stories from this region of Florida that are so prevalent these days. The entrepreneurial leaders of this company found a solution to a critical telecommunications problem and they made their solution available at a reasonable price to a wide number of interested users. Small business remains the strength for providing jobs and the future of our business community."
